New York City 3, N.Y.

Dear Miss Strassman,

A week from today our remaining 1,221 laying chickens will be disposed of and as soon thereafter as the faculty at the University of Maryland gets the new term under way I'll be deep in working up the evidence for our claims against the Army.

Before then, I'd like to come up and talk to you. I'd like to do it Thursday or Friday, the 30th. or 31st, on the following Thursday and Friday, the sixth and seventh. I do not now know because we are sending a gift of geese and rare duck to President Nkrumah of Ghana, and while this operation is close, I do not know how close. With That Embassy, our own State Department, the USIA and possibly the Air Force and the National Institute of Health involved, I really cannot even make a good guess.

I have written Sid Kaufman who I also want to see. What I'd like to do is be able to leave here Thursday morning, spend the remainder of Thursday and most of Friday in New York and return Firday night. If anything should develop to make it desireable for me to stay a little longer, I could.

If the necessities of our liquidation and my remaining deliveries permit it, I will go over and retype the draft of a story on the sonic boom and the supersonic transport, which I have drafted but haven't read or revised. I hope to be able to mail it to you before I come up but do not know whether this will be possible.

Have you freezer space available? I'm expecting to take Sid some of our products and would like to bring you some.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Weisberg
